WHO IS IT FOR?

BUSINESS LEADERS

As a business leader, you know how important the economic health of your community is. If you want to see your company grow and flourish, The Academy is for you. Learning more about economic development principles, community resilience, and connecting with others who are doing the same will have a positive impact on your business.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT AND ELECTED OFFICIALS

In Wyoming it takes all types. From a brand new town clerk to a member of the State Senate, The Academy will give you knowledge and real-world examples of how economic development can build communities. We have specific scholarships for local government employees and have carefully crafted the schedule to not overlap with the convening of the State Legislature.

COMMUNITY LEADERS

Calling all movers and shakers. Regardless of your title, community leaders are key to building resilient communities. The Academy will give your vision the backbone and connections it needs to succeed, plus a good dose of energy and a statewide network to keep you moving forward.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPERS

If you are an economic developer who wants to break the mold and learn something new, The Academy is for you. At most, The Academy will accept 2-3 individuals who hold a full-time position in economic development. Board members and active volunteers working in economic development are not included in this category.
